To quote effectively think about a burger....

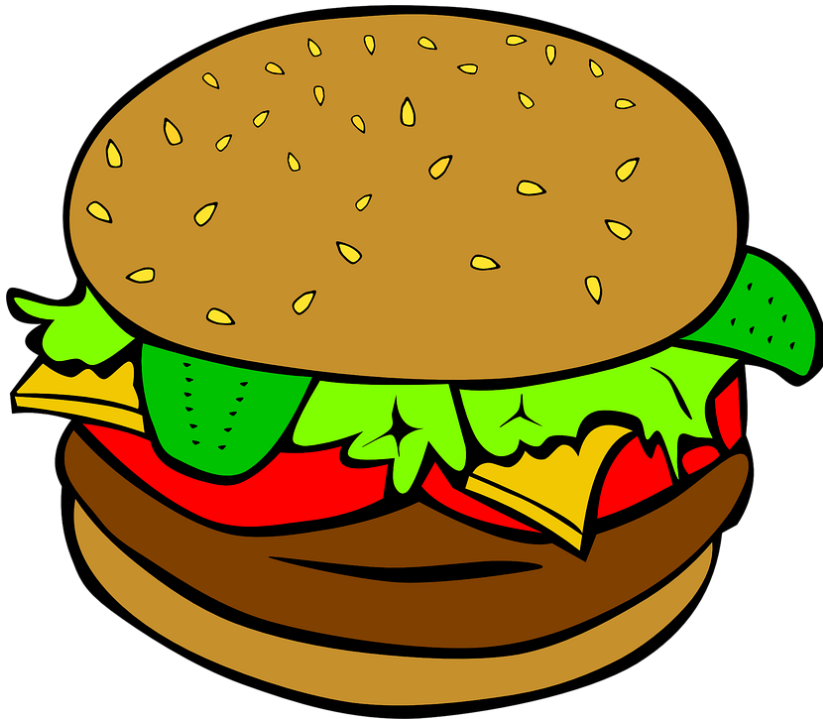

The top bread = Your own words/idea

The condiments = A signal phrase to preface the quote

The meat = The quote itself

The bottom bun = Your discussion of the quote's significance

Quote: "For it may be said of men in general, that they are ingrates, fickle, deceivers, evaders of danger, desirous of gain."

Now you try. . .

Use these two quotes to make your own burgers: "The greatest test of courage is to bear defeat without losing heart." Robert Ingersoll, Civil War veteran and orator, page 836. AND "We are the choices we make." Meryl Streep, award-winning actress, page 673
